

Sunday Writers Workshop

Drop-in tutoring and writing workshop hours for Mighty Writers aged 7+.

Does your second grader need help in reading? Is your eighth grader stumped on his science fair project? Does your high school senior need an extra push on that college essay? All of this and more can be taken care of during Mighty Writers' regular Sunday hours, 3-6pm.

Here are some examples of what happens Sundays:

Homework. Homeschool students often bring homework to complete on Sundays, and we help with all subjects the best that we can!

Special Projects. Long-term assignments like science fair projects and book reports can be completed with the help of our Mighty tutors and Mac desktops, available for student use.

Essays. High school students are welcome to bring college application essays, scholarship essays, or school essay assignments to us any Sunday during the school year. We'll take them to the next level.

Writing Projects. Like last year, we'll ask students in all grades 2 to 8 to complete 30 minutes of writing after their other work is done. This Sunday, second and third graders will be writing figurative language poems about family members. Fourth and fifth graders will be completing an informative writing piece about a time that they lost something. Sixth through eighth graders will also be working on informative writing, telling us about a family tradition.

See you in the studio!
